PRACTICE DEMOCRACY. READ YOUR LEGAL NOTICES. THEY'RE CRUCIAL TO DEMOCRACY.

The reason publication of legal notices is required in newspapers is YOU, the citizen. In a Democracy, the government is required to inform you of the public business, because you and your neighbors are the basis for government. These notices provide essential information about all local government entities, including schools, cities, villages and counties. A Democracy is a system of checks and balances. Your right to know and be informed is a check on government. Public notices shed light on the actions of all governmental bodies, but it's up to you, the citizen, to read them and obtain more information if necessary about the actions that impact you.

The Northern Wyoming Daily News, a 5-day per week, family-owned newspaper located in Worland, Wyo. near the Bighorn mountains, in the Rocky mountain West is seeking a community-focused reporter who is unafraid to dig into the local news scene. The ideal candidate will be creative, motivated and committed to excellent writing and accurate reporting. We are looking for someone who cares about community journalism.

This job encompasses a variety of responsibilities - generating story ideas, writing, meeting deadlines, and multitasking. For this potentially management-track position, you must have excellent communication skills and work well with a variety of personality types, both in the newsroom and in the local communities.

Minimum requirements: Bachelor's degree or equivalent experience; strong grasp of AP Style; digital photography experience.

We offer a competitive salary, benefit package and paid vacation days.

The ideal candidate will also appreciate living in the West. Located in the county seat of Washakie County, Worland is located within the Big Horn Basin and along the Big Horn River in beautiful Northwestern Wyoming. We are fortunate to have easy access to the Bighorn Mountains to the west and the Wind River Mountains to the south including the Wind River Canyon. A community hub for the 5,487 people who reside in the city limits, Worland has a proud heritage of initiative, innovation and just plain grit with outdoor opportunities abound - hiking, fishing, downhill and cross country skiing, biking, snowshoeing, kayaking, ice climbing and more.

Salary plus generous benefit package including health insurance, retirement and paid vacation. Please submit a cover letter, your resume and two examples of your best work to Mr. Patrick Murphy at publisher@vcn.com. You may apply in person at our Worland office at 201 N. 8th St., Worland, WY 82401

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: I have been married to "Tom" for 30 years, and we've raised two successful children. Tom is a nice guy, but he is a binge drinker and has been all the years I have known him.

I didn't recognize this as alcoholism until 10 years ago. Tom has been in therapy ever since. It has increased his awareness, but hasn't stopped the binging. It seems to happen several times a year at social events. He drinks so much that he blacks out, falls, vomits on himself, displays other inappropriate behavior and suffers countless humiliations.

As always, Tom is shocked when I tell him what he did the night before and promises never to drink again. Slowly things get better, I forgive him, and then it happens again. This also happens when he goes away with his friends, but I don't know the details, so there is a trust issue, as well. I have been going to Al-Anon for years and am taking great care of myself. But I do feel sad sometimes.

KATHY MITCHELL & MARCY SUGAR
Creators Syndicate

Now that the children are grown, I could leave him, but the vows "through sickness and health" stop me. And, of course, many people would be upset, including our kids. Any advice? - T.

Dear T.: Worry less about what others will think and more about what you can live with. Is Tom a good candidate for medication to curtail his drinking? Would he be willing to do it? Talk to his doctor. Would it make a bigger impression if you videotaped him when he's drunk so he could see for himself how he behaves? Do it. Would he cooperate with your setting a time limit on how long he spends at these social events in the hope that you could get him out before it's too late? (We understand that this would be difficult.)

If Tom refuses to do any of these things, or if it makes no difference in his drinking, you need to determine whether it happens often enough that you can no longer tolerate it. You may benefit from some counseling to help you figure it out.

Dear Annie: You printed a lot of responses about people whose nickname is "Dick." But how does one get that out of Richard? - K. in Hot Springs, Ark.

Dear K.: It is human nature to shorten names, both when speaking and when writing. Shortened versions of Richard have been common for centuries, likely starting with "Rick" or "Rich," which then produced nicknames of their own, such as "Richie." In England, where Richard has been a familiar moniker since the Norman Conquest, people liked to rhyme names, which is probably how "Rick" became "Dick." (Apparently, there used to be another rhyming nickname, "Hick," which has since dropped from its early popularity in the 13th century.)

Here's a little additional information for you: Richard derives from the old German and means "brave power" or "brave ruler," which could explain why England had three kings named Richard, the last of whom was recently given a royal burial in Leicester Cathedral after his remains were discovered underneath a municipal parking lot.
